

son was on the field, the pill did not hit any one. It was some exhibition of sportsmanship, however. If Evers can't control himself any better than that, what can he expect to do with his men? Even Zim, who is alleged to be temperamental, never pulled anything like that.

Leach is about the last man on the Cub team who should be jumped by the manager. The little fellow is as hard a worker as any on the squad and is giving his best efforts for the good of the team.

There are a whole lot of fans who look at the pitching averages to decide what kind of a flinger a man is. They see that he has won a mess of games and at once conclude he must be a bear. Away down in the list they come to another guy who has a much smaller average and they stamp him as a lemon.

They have the wrong idea. Pitching averages are about the most misleading figures in the world, not excepting some of those seen on the most beautiful of the new voters. In the case of Walter Johnson, who really heads the American League,
